CCC has been supporting children and adults with cancer at the National Cancer Institute Maharagama, Sri Lanka (NCI) for over 7 years. In 2009, CCC started construction of the CCC House, the largest cancer transit home project in Sri Lanka consisting of 170 beds. Construction is progressing extremely well and CCC hopes to open 50 beds to outpatients and their carers by June 2010.

In December 2009, CCC launched CCCLine, the first telephone counselling service in Sri Lanka. CCCLine aims to support the emotional wellbeing and mental health concerns of those who are going through difficulties in Sri Lanka.

All funds raised will be going towards these two vital projects by the CCC Foundation.
